PHILADELPHIA, JANUARY 17th, 1865.

The Annual Meeting of Stockholders of the Mercantile Library Company was held this evening at 7½ o'clock. Mr. John Farnum was called to the chair.

The Secretary stated, that as the minutes of the last annual meeting had been acted upon at the adjourned meeting in February, they would not be read. The minutes of the adjourned meeting held February 24th, 1864, were then read and approved.

The Annual Report of the Managers to the Stockholders was read. It was moved to suspend the reading of the names of books donated during the year. Carried. A tabular statement of the condition and affairs of the Library, during the past ten years, was then read, as a part of the Annual Report, and on motion the Report was accepted.

The Annual Report of the Treasurer was read and accepted.

The following proposed amendment to the 2d clause of Art. 4th of the By-Laws, was put before the meeting for action ; the clause reads as follows : " At this meeting nominations shall be made of Officers for the ensuing year." The amendment proposed is as follows : " And at the ensuing election no vote shall be received, except for a person so nominated." After some debate, the resolution to amend was tabled.

Mr. John B. English offered the following resolution :—

“ Resolved, That so much of the Annual Report of the Board of Managers, submitted this evening, as relates to the erection of a new building for the use of the Library, be, and is hereby referred to a select Committee of twenty-five Stockholders, to be appointed by the Chairman of this meeting, at his leisure, and that said Committee shall have power to collect moneys, in the name and for the use of the Library, to be exclusively set apart for a building fund—and may communicate with the Board of Managers, and report at a special Meeting of the Stockholders—said meeting to be called by the Committee—but shall have no power to disburse moneys, make contracts or other engagements binding upon the Company, unless expressly authorized hereafter to do so by the Board of Managers.”

And on motion the Resolution was unanimously adopted.

FORTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF MANAGERS
OF THE
MERCANTILE LIBRARY COMPANY OF PHILADELPHIA,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1864.

The career of this Institution, during the year which has just elapsed, is one to which every true friend of public progress and enlightenment must look back with feelings of gratified pride. It has passed, with safety to its own interests, and vast benefit to the people, one of those crises in the history of such concerns which mark the passage from a limited area of usefulness to one of great scope and importance. It was not without some misgivings that the Managers encountered this trial, but these have given way before the actual tide of prosperity arising from the large influx of revenues and of members. The latter have served to double our influence for good, and commensurately enhance the relative position of the Institution in the community for the benefit of which it was established, while the former has enabled us to add very largely to our stock of literature.

REVENUES.

The fixed revenues of this Library may now be considered superior to those of any Library in Pennsylvania, and equalled by very few in any part of the United States; and when we bear in mind that this result has been achieved with so little aid of an eleemosynary character that the latter seems small by comparison,—that, in point of fact, this permanent revenue is the work of a community contributing its money for its own benefit, in small sums, for which an ample return is made, we think we cannot err in claiming for it the merit of being something of which our city may well feel proud. By a voluntary choice of their own, our stockholders determined to raise the scale of their own dues, and this, so far from reducing the number of the contributors, has been followed by a large increase.

DUPLICATION OF STOCK.

The duplication of the shares of stock has been fully vindicated as a measure of policy by its practical operation, and the evils feared by many as likely to ensue from it, in consequence of the great number of applicants for desirable books, have been averted by duplicating the popular works as far as the demand required. This matter has called for much care and attention, and the time of a special committee has been very much engrossed in revising the catalogue, watching the demand for books, and ascertaining how best to supply the wants of the Library. We think that a satisfactory result has been arrived at, and that the condition of the Library is better now than it has ever been before.

The duplication of the stock had been fully warranted by the increased value of the property of the Institution; but, aside from this, it was obviously in keeping with the objects of the founders of the Library, by extending its beneficial influences as widely as possible among the reading and thinking people of the city, to afford the means of literary enjoyment to thousands who otherwise would have been without it. It cannot be said that in so doing we have trenched upon the sphere of any other literary institution. We have gathered within our fold thousands who never before were members of any Library Company. We have sought and found our own sphere of usefulness. We have developed a taste for literature which the community has never before received credit for, and we have proven satisfactorily that any Library Company may similarly increase its votaries by proper exertions.

MEMBERS.

As the result of the duplication of the stock of the Company, which was authorized in the year 1863, the accessions of new members have been beyond all precedent of former years. The number of members added by duplication of shares of stock is 2546; by the conversion of scrip 168; by the sale of original shares at par 62; making a total of 2776 new stockholders,—which, added to the number of stockholders on December 31, 1863 (2833), makes an aggregate of 5609 stockholders. If to this we add the number of subscribers (285), we have the whole number of persons entitled to the use of the Library, 5894.

The result of this movement to duplicate the stock has been far more favorable to the Library in every bearing of it than was anticipated by its most sanguine friends. Besides the increase of members, it will be seen, by the Treasurer's report, that the revenue from stockholders during the year was nearly fourteen thousand dollars, or more than three times the average amount of the two preceding years.

LIBRARY.

This increased revenue has rendered it possible, notwithstanding the largely increased cost of books, to add to the Library a greater number of volumes than in any previous year. These additions were, by donation, 168 volumes; by the binding of periodicals, 160 volumes; by purchase, 4855 volumes: total 5183. Of these, about eight hundred and fifty volumes were imported directly from London. This, owing to the high rate of sterling exchange, has added very much to the cost of books purchased. But the supply of late English books on our shelves, while other importations have been so generally suspended, has been one of the attractive and valuable features of our Library.

The number of volumes belonging to the Library at present is about thirty-two thousand. During the year 1864 the number of volumes loaned from the Library was 161,440—a vast increase, and an average of 530 volumes issued for each day the Library was open. Increased advantage has been taken of the rule allowing additional books to be loaned upon extra payments, and from this source the payments into the treasury during the year amounted to $188.10.

NEW PERIODICALS.

Our subscription list of newspapers and periodicals has been increased by the addition of the following: New York Daily News, North Carolina Times, Evening Telegraph, San Francisco Bulletin, Boise News, U. S. Army and Navy Journal, Oregonian, Dakotian, Memphis Bulletin, Belfast Whig, United States Service Magazine, Lady's Friend, Philadelphia Photographer, Colburn's United Service Magazine, Bibliotheca Sacra, Our Young Folks, The Index, Fun, Le Journal Amusante, Le Monde Illustré, Kladderadatsch, and Fliegende Blätter.

COMPARATIVE TABLE.

Accompanying this Report will be found a table showing the receipts and expenditures of the Company under various heads for the past ten years, and also some comparative results, which are important as bearing upon the recent and prospective growth of the Institution. From this table it appears that while the expenses of managing the Library, and especially the salaries, have been steadily increasing, that increase has not been at all proportional to the increase of the receipts. On the contrary, the percentage of the gross income which has been absorbed in current expenses has been continually diminishing, while the percentage of gross income which has been put into books has been increasing from year to year.

PROSPECTIVE GROWTH.

It is a source of unfeigned regret to your Board of Managers, that the increasing throngs in our reading rooms warn us that there is a limit to our extension while we remain in our present quarters, at the same time that we are made constantly aware that we have only begun to satisfy the public, and that if we had the space to accommodate the throngs, there is now a sufficient scope for us to increase our membership to twice the present limits. This proceeds from the fact that the popularity of the Library is steadily rising in the city; that it has been assiduously cultivated by seeking to provide, as far as our means went, for all the literary wants of the people; that the Institution has shown itself at all times to be eminently progressive, and capable of doing more than any other literary institution in the city.

Whether we shall continue to retain this favor will depend upon the future course of management of those who may be entrusted with the guidance of our affairs. It cannot be denied that this management has been rendered more difficult by the increasing number of members; and the ingenuity of the Board is perpetually taxed to obviate the constantly occurring demand for more space for books, and for facilities of access thereto. If we are compelled to remain in the present building, we can still go on with these changes, and be able to accommodate all the books we can purchase, up to an aggregate of fifty thousand volumes, some eighteen thousand beyond what we now have; but our members will not find the same facilities for reading in the Library as when our visitors were fewer.

BUILDING.

Our building is now in more complete order than it has been for years past; and it is worthy of remark, that all the alterations, additions, repairs and reconstructions made during the past five years, have been harmonized and blended in a tasteful, agreeable and inviting hall, both internally and externally. During the past year we have had all the offices papered and painted, and some other important work done to the Library hall. The fund set apart for the ultimate purpose of erecting a new building for the accommodation of the Library has been augmented by an addition of three thousand five hundred dollars during the past year, making the total amount of the fund nine thousand dollars. It is proper to observe that the Board has set apart certain portions of its regular revenues for the increase of this fund, so that it may be constantly making some progress.

LIBRARIANS.

Additional force has now been provided for transacting the largely increased business of the Library, especially at the book desks; and although the purchases of books are so large as to exceed the ordinary influx to a library, yet even this has been managed by the industry of our Librarian and assistants. By the additions we have made to this force we are also able now to keep the book cases in better order than formerly, though in this respect our efforts are seriously retarded by the careless manner in which members and others use the books; and no exertions of ours will suffice to entirely overcome this evil, nor do we see any present method of avoiding it.

DONATION.

A member of the Library, desirous of evincing his appreciation of the benefits he derived in early manhood from becoming associated with it as a shareholder, and with a view to perpetuating its objects and purposes to the advantage of others, has donated a U.S. Government bond for one thousand dollars, the interest of which is to be applied to the future purchase of books. We hope that some of our wealthy retired merchants may be induced to follow this example during life, or remember our Association by a liberal testamentary bequest.*

This Institution was originally founded, as its name implies, for the benefit of the mercantile classes of Philadelphia; but in America these constitute so large a portion of the community, that unavoidably here, as in other chief cities of the republic, the Mercantile Library has become the great leading literary institution of the city. In saying this, we are conscious that the Library is not in all respects what so vast a city as Philadelphia should have; and while we are satisfied that we have done our utmost to make it what it should be, it is so far short of such a mark that what we have done bears no appreciable analogy to what remains to be done. Indeed, it may be truly said that we are just emerging from the difficulties which prevented our enlarging the sphere of our operations, and are beginning to see what an immense field lies before us. However this may be, the work already accomplished, and the success which has uniformly attended their efforts, enable the Board of Managers to look forward to a future not less progressive than the past.

* By vote of the Board accepting the above donation, it was ordered that the books which should be purchased with the accruing interest be labelled with the name of the donor, as is done in the case of the Cope Fund.

Owing to the changes of the last year and a half, the Library has assumed more of a popular character, wherein the current publications absorb most attention; but it must not thence be supposed that we have neglected the more valuable classes of literature. An examination will show that in every department we have made very large additions, and that the purchases therefor go on regularly to a greater extent than ever before. In truth, a popular institution of this character must unavoidably essay to satisfy all tastes. A less frequented library, with more books of recondite learning and a quieter reading room, might better satisfy the scholarly few, but could hardly appease the appetites of the great majority of the members and readers. We think our Library may, in every department, claim to be well selected and varied, and that the student in any branch of learning will find much on our shelves to satisfy his most exacting demands. We shall go on adding to our stores so fast as our means and opportunities enable us; but time is requisite to the perfecting of any library, unless ample means for immediate purchases on a grand scale be provided at the outset.

NEW BUILDING.

To the question whether the purchase of so valuable a stock of books would be advisable in our present building, we reply that we are now rapidly accumulating just such a stock, and that the large permanent means at our command enable us to purchase to a greater extent than any other Library in Pennsylvania at this time. We know that we have not proper protection for valuable books ; we know that we have not as much room for the accommodation of readers as we should have ; we know that both defects might be remedied by the erection of a new building, thoroughly fire-proof, and large enough to afford ample facilities for all readers. But we are not willing to pause in our career of usefulness to engage in an enterprise of so costly a nature, unless assured not only of the hearty co-operation of our stockholders, but also of the aid of liberal givers to public purposes, and well wishers of the city.

The business men of Philadelphia have made this Library what it is. Their enterprise, their energy, their liberality, have stimulated the management under all circumstances to do their utmost. It is for them to say when they think that this Library, which is peculiarly theirs, and one of which we think they need not feel ashamed, demands help of a more extended character than any it has hitherto been afforded. Of themselves, the Board of Managers can only suggest the matter for their consideration, and await their action, if they deem such action necessary. If the business men of Philadelphia desire to do a great and noble deed, they should now come forward and subscribe such a fund as will enable the Board to provide a suitable building for the Library, and increase its stock of books to an extent equalling that of any institution in the country.
